WRIT APPEAL No. 1350 OF 2005

JUDGMENT : (Per Hon'ble Sri Bilal Nazki, ACJ)

Head learned counsel for the parties.

This appeal is filed against an order passed by the learned Single Judge. The appellants filed a writ petition, questioning the panchanama, dated 08.02.2005, by which, the possession was taken from the writ petitioners and given to the 2nd respondent herein. The learned Single Judge found that the panchanama, dated 08.02.2005, was consequent to the orders passed by the Special Deputy Collector (Tribal Welfare) on 30.12.1977. Although the petitioners claimed that another writ petition was pending, even in that petition being writ petition No.2144 of 2005, the order dated 30.12.1977, has not been challenged. In that writ petition, a Notice dated 31.01.2005, which is also consequential to the orders dated 30.12.1977, has been challenged.

In these circumstances, no interference is called for in the order passed by the learned Single Judge. Therefore, the Writ Appeal is dismissed. No order as to costs.

Appellants are at liberty to seek any remedies that may be available to them in law. Status quo ante shall be restored, as it existed when this Court passed the order of interim stay on 21.07.2005.
